UP International College New Zealand is proudly a Licensee of The FernMark Licence Programme, which is a country of origin trademark Programme, endorsed and recognised by the New Zealand Government.

The FernMark is used by New Zealand government departments across the world. It represents the story of who we are and where we're from, our New Zealand Story. It's a symbol people recognise and trust - a trademark that embodies our values of kaitiaki, integrity, ingenuity - the values of our New Zealand Story.

HISTORY OF THE SILVER FERN

The Silver Fern is one of New Zealand's most recognised, long-standing, and respected national symbols. Since the late 19th Century our fern has been worn with pride by our sports teams, with honour by our soldiers and used to represent our country all over the world. But why is the Silver Fern so special? Māori hunters and warriors would use the silver underside of the fern leaves to find their way. When bent over, the fronds would catch the moonlight and illuminate a path through the forest.

Today, the Silver Fern is still guiding the way, just as it has for over 150 years. The New Zealand Government and key private businesses have helped grow the FernMark into a recognisable and valuable icon. Tourism New Zealand and New Zealand Trade and Enterprise have also adopted the Silver Fern as the country of origin symbol for New Zealand. And now, the FernMark gives us the opportunity to represent New Zealand on the world stage and bring international students on a journey to our shores through our New Zealand Story.

Explore while you study

New Zealand is proudly multicultural, and we respect and welcome international students. The New Zealand Government's Code of Practice requires education providers to keep students safe and well during their study, including during their recreational time.

New Zealand has it all – excellent universities, a great lifestyle, diverse communities, vibrant cities, stunning natural scenery and an unbeatable range of outdoor activities, all within a small area. Cities such as Auckland and Wellington offer plenty of cultural activities, while those who love the great outdoors have glaciers, mountains, rainforests and coastlines to explore.

"There was something 'profoundly different' about New Zealand compared with the rest of the world, and it was something the world could learn from. It's a certain sense of duty to each other, that you're part of the team, that you will sacrifice for each other. That empathy, that love and respect, whatever it is that binds you together – we hope to be as much a part of that as we can be."

WELCOME TO WELLINGTON

A great place to study and live.

Surrounded by a stunning harbour and green hills, Wellington often ranks as one of the most liveable cities in the world for good reason.

With a population of 496,000, the Wellington region is well-connected literally and figuratively – located at the bottom of the North Island it's easily accessible and, as a compact city, it's easy to get around.

Being the capital of New Zealand also means we're well-connected in terms of collaboration between education providers, research institutions, the business community and government.

It's a city where people love to live, study and work and that's a fact - Wellingtonians top the charts when it comes to quality of life.

Wellington is compact and convenient, so take advantage of the great shopping, beaches, mountain bike trails, native bush, restaurants, and the best café culture in the country. Visit galleries and museums, get among the vibrant nightlife, and check out the night markets, festivals, theatre shows, and music gigs.

"My teachers were lovely and well-versed with the online tools which made communication seamless and effective. They take great care of their online students and are always available for consultation, even working beyond school hours to accommodate the different time zones. Depending on the subject, classes may be a mix of onshore and online students to maximise teachers time and resources. This means that you already get to meet and be friends with students who are already in New Zealand. The more I studied and received guidance from my teachers online, the stronger my confidence in my academic ability grew which inspired me to choose Geography as my career pathway."

Xi Shao

"This compact and friendly city is a perfect place for students. Its artistic atmosphere is really good for inspiring students."

Xi's favourite project so far has been designing a community centre for Newtown, an eclectic suburb in southern Wellington. This project was part of the Architecture Design Integration course and looked at people-environment relationships. The course is run in collaboration with Wellington City Council and Newtown Community and Cultural Centre.

"I learnt a lot of design ideas and techniques from this course. It was the most challenging architecture project I have worked on but very rewarding and has potential to actually be built."

The Wellington School of Architecture has lived up to Xi's expectations, and he has found the balance between practical and theory to be great.

"It's very impressive learning experience in UP Education. Every classmate that I met is kind and the teachers are also very nice when they teach us. I did not have the confidence to speak English at the beginning of the programme. However, no one will laugh at me here so that I got a lot of encouragement to open my mouth to communicate with other people.

I do feel supported by my teachers and the staff from school. It's very helpful to me when I have any questions and I just texted teachers or emailed them. They are always trying to help me and answer my questions."

SUPPORT ON CAMPUS

UP International College New Zealand

Learning Support

Studying overseas is exciting and rewarding – but sometimes it can also be challenging. We are here to provide all the support and care students need to achieve their goals. The role of the Deans is to support the tutors and teaching staff by monitoring attendance and academic progress, and carrying out disciplinary measures where required. If a teacher has a concern about a student, they talk to their tutor first, followed by the dean if necessary. Our teachers, tutors and deans work together closely to ensure students are happy and thriving.

International Student Support

International student support officers help students with accommodation, health, course guidance and pathway options, as well as administration issues such as visa renewals, banking and insurance.

Additionally, if you are feeling stressed, anxious, lonely or simply don’t know who to turn to, you can speak to Sonder’s multilingual support team anytime via live chat or phone, and they can even send in-person assistance if you need it.

Caring for your health & wellbeing

We have staff trained and registered with Red Cross for minor health and wellbeing issues at the International College. If students need further medical treatment, a doctor is available by appointment.

Studentsafe insurance for international students

The Education (Pastoral Care of Tertiary and International Learners) Code of Practice 2021 requires all international students studying in New Zealand to have appropriate health and travel insurance during their period of study.
