Darwin is a unique tropical city famous for its beautiful sunsets, spectacular natural scenery, cosmopolitan markets, vibrant multiculturalism, Indigenous culture, fascinating history, and engagement with Asia. In fact, Darwin is just a few hours away from most capital cities in South East Asia and just six hours from South China.

Charles Darwin University

Charles Darwin University (CDU) is based in the capital city of Darwin at the heart of Australia's tropical north and is Australia's closest university to Asia.

CDU has all the advantages of a relatively young multi-sector university, including vigour, creativity and flexibility. But its true character and richness stem from its location in the Northern Territory of Australia, centred in Darwin: a youthful, multicultural, cosmopolitan, and robust tropical city in a Territory that is steeped in Aboriginal tradition and culture which enjoys a close interaction with the peoples of Southeast Asia.

Here, people from diverse cultures seek endless opportunity in the stunning sights and sounds of Darwin. From the expansive deserts in the south, to the Arafura Sea in the north rich with marine life, Darwin has boundless opportunities for research and exploration.

Check out Northern Territory's best kept secret, Litchfield National Park, or Mary River wetlands, a thriving microcosm of Top End wildlife – the possibilities are endless.

The pathway programs are delivered in partnership with UP Education. "I took Foundation Studies for two semesters at CDU International College. I took a 2 year gap from school after graduating year 12 in the Philippines. Taking the pathway program really helped me prepare to go back to school. It was an easy transition from foundation studies to my bachelors degree."
